FRANKLIN	NO	We have spoken about it a few times in the past and most recently about 2 years ago. Currently we have no pay to play programs at all and when I figured out that each athlete would be able to afford just $25 per sport at most, the amount we would get total is not worth the added time and effort to administer a pay to play program. We have so many free and reduced lunchers and that would have to be considered...so others would be paying more to make up for that and then we would get comments from parents that if I'm paying more, then my kid should play more. I figured we would have roughly $12,000 of pay to play money (high school + middle school), but that amount is not near enough to make it worth our while of administering the program.
PELHAM	NO	dropped the "Pay to Play" fee about 4 years back and participation soared, & now has leveled out with most sports carrying JV teams too. When we were charging $75 per sport our numbers were much lower.
KEARSARGE	NO
SOMERSWORTH	YES	Each team is required to pay for officials and state fees while the district pays for transportation and coaching salaries. Teams can either charge athletes, fundraise or a combination of both.
