Hello there

Hope you are fine. I guess we are going to have to go through the process....I would like to appeal the committees decision on the language assignment. I was asked to put this in writing to you. Let me know if there is anything else on your end needed that I didn't do correctly. Thanks

Hi Tracy,

If there is anything else that you would like me to know about your appeal (other than what is in your original Request for Reconsideration of Instructional Materials), please let me know in writing. Otherwise, this notification is sufficient.

Thanks and have a great weekend!

Tina

Tina,

If you research Lopate, it is about writing an unconventional essay. Unconventional essays challenges traditional views. I have shown this to other parents who are quite upset. I have been told by other school districts in another state that they use similar questions when trying to screen for problem children. There is more behind this, her agenda, I am quite sure. I do think other parents need to be aware of these questions to 12 yr olds at the very least. Maybe a parent sign off prior. Though the assignment offered students not to answer...she stressed to the class prior to answer them. Their statement that they need this for state tests and college essays is bologna and that is 6 yrs away. Students need to do a first person essay...not a personal one. Most of the kids in the class cannot even construct a sentence properly...I have seen it..and the teacher is worried about them answering questions that not one person on the school board would answer. I will ask them to answer them if they are so brave, when we get there. Would you answer any of these questions to the public? If you still feel this is sufficient...then please let me know the next step for the school board.

Thank you for your time

Hello Again,

Thanks for sharing your additional thoughts. I'll take them all under consideration along with the packet of materials that was sent to me (the same that you received).

Tina
