

How can RHS better assist you in navigating your education during the pandemic?

1. n/a
2. It would be much better if there were no mandated google meets for attendance purposes or otherwise.
3. I think remote learning is okay but I think being in school is better, because people will speak more in class , we could do actual labs, and could do group assignments.
4. Honestly the teachers and students are handling this situation SO WELL!! The only thing is it definitely can get overwhelming at times because of how much work we get assigned. Thats the only thing i would wish to change :)
5. I haven't had any problems.
6. idk
7. a check in to see how things are going and what we need help with
8. Try to do hybrid as much as possible
9. Going from 2 days a week to 4 days a week was exhausting. I personally am a very determined student and I've never had a problem with school. But when we switched to remote learning again this year, we weren't switching from a full week to 4 days, we were adding 2 more days of learning to the schedule. In order for my to turn all of my work in, I've been staying up until 1am every night and I am very good at time management. There's is too much work and not enough time to do it. I sit at my computer at my desk IN SCHOOL from 7:30-2. Then I sit there until 8 doing homework, and usually go back to finish my homework. This was just some feedback from my perspective. Thank you.
10. The thing with me and my situation is that i'm in vlacs on top of regular school, so vlacs and school schedules are different. In vlacs since I started one of my classes on a tuesday, my work is due for that class every tuesday. This is very hard to try to keep up with because I have to have different schedules for every class I have right now, and I am falling behind because of it. I don't know if any other students are having the same problem, but I personally don't think remote should be an option after the pandemic because this can happen to lots of other students.
11. Lower work load. Hybrid model and activities like prom
12. lower the work load as well as go back to hybrid and have activies like prom
13. They can't
14. I like many others and struggling to find the motivation to continue our education over the computer. I understand some people may be scared, but others are not as blessed to be given the opportunity to "stay home" at the drop of a hat, actually no one except for the teachers can do that. Truthfully remote is absolutely miserable my entire high school experience has been taken away from me, all the joyful memories of high school that make it fun are gone. With all of these opportunities taken away from us I've found my motivation at the lowest it has ever been, I've been depressed and cant even bring myself to join the google meet some days, I have collectively been absent in the remote model more than in person and it's not okay. I don't know how you guys can fix this but I want to be in person remote is terribly miserable, all of this is miserable we the students just need some hope.

15. RHS is doing very good at assisting me while in the pandemic.
16. We went from having class just about every other day to every day with more homework. We are constantly communicating through emails my inbox is full and I am always deleting them. There is only so much you can really explain in an email and it is really frustrating to learn that way. I like to think of myself as quite the try hard student and since we have been remote my PSAT score didn't move a point and I have never had trouble with improvement because I work for it so I am thinking that remote learning has something to do with my lack of new knowledge.
17. My only answer would be in person but I know the answer to that
18. no
19. the quality of lives could be improved most students and teachers have their screens off during lives and it sad because I want to enjoy but i cant when no one interacts or even talk except when called upon and its not enjoyable i'm starting to lose hope and happiness for remote learning.
20. CHANGE THE WORKLOAD. Every one of my classmates who are SENIORS are more stressed than they ever have been due to the work load. Have teachers focus on the students ability to learn rather than just assigning and entire chapter in one week with a google form attached at the end. I personally, and many others whom I am in contact with are drowning with work. I also do not feel the attendance method accurately shows the students attendance. Marking a kid absent within the first 5 minutes of the class is ridiculous when you don't even do a google meet half of the time nor do you contact your teacher. Please factor in the fact that students are teenagers who are required to sleep roughly 7-8 hours a night. Probably more. This is nearly impossible when some students work until 9pm-10pm, get home, and have to work on an assignment that was assigned to be completed in a 60 minute block. Please fix attendance. Please correct the workload. Please create more opportunities to meet with your teachers. Please offer a more flexible remote that benefits people who may be sick. Please talk to your staff and focus on the needs of the children more.
21. That snow day was confusing. I was told by teachers i wasn't going to have class but i didn't know we had to go to a meeting and say "here". i've been marked absent when i didn't even get an email to join. but other classes didn't do that. so next time, we should just call a snow day seeing as we sit in front of a computer all day anyways and snow days rarely come. it's a good way to just let off the stress we have right now. to whoever is reading this, i truly think i won't be able to fully go back next year. i think it will take a toll on each student seeing as we've been in and out for so long. hybrid is very useful because we get to go in but going in everyday would be a lot on everyone i think.
22. We need to go back to hybrid
23. I feel like requiring kids to turn their cameras or mics on to ensure that they are actually in class is important. A lot of people in my classes just turn their camera and mic on, then leave to do something else. Also, I think that clubs should still be happening. This helps to maintain some degree of normalcy.

24. Keep doing what they are doing

25. LESS WORK

26. The teachers have to realize that we don't have more time than we did at school. They are all assigning more work, we shouldn't be working until after school ends to finish our work for the day. Google meets shouldn't be used to do work (like breakout rooms) with the whole class, the teachers should teach the lesson and if a student needs help then they should stay on.

27. Have Fridays be a work catch up day and make it so attendance is due at the end of the day, also make it so Fridays can be a day where students can actually catch up on work and not have to worry about teachers assigning work due for Fridays.

28. Maybe if the teachers understood that just because were remote doesn't mean they should be assigning us even more work. The workload is sometimes unbearable. Another thing, I think it's unfair to have attendance based work for Fridays when we spend all week on the computer. Friday should be a day for us to get off, not a day where some teachers take advantage of it and make us do even more work. I also think we should still have snow days. We have gotten everything else taken away from us, we should at least keep snow days to allow for more normalcy. As a senior, I also feel like I am drawing the short straw with college help. I have received very little college help, and even have emailed my counselor for help, to which they never responded. I feel like the seniors are being forgotten about. The class of 2020 was praised for going through school during a pandemic but the class of 2021 has lost everything that makes senior year, "senior year". I wish there was something for us, seniors, to look forward to.

29. Give out less work, so much is expected of us it's overwhelming and too much to do.

30. Actually letting us go to school and being better with the attendance even after this. I also feel that the teachers could be more patient with us as this is very different than being in school. I also feel that they are expecting too much and should try and understand that we are all still trying to get used to this change.

31. Be there when I need help, whether it be in school or remote.

32. Being in school for hybrid really helps me focus with my ADD

33. Teachers' expectations are too high considering we are not in class

34. To the teachers that just go on a call for attendance, they should actually teach. For the teachers that just assign a bunch of work and expect us to finish it by a certain day, spread it out, it's stressing us out. I appreciate the effort, just please remember that we get work from other classes too, not just your class.

35. Not all teachers are assigning double the work to do. And in my situation, when I am home I also have responsibilities to fulfill due to me being home. I think that remote should be available in the situation where a student might be absent for a day or two. But I think this also means that teachers should meet with students while others are in class. This way we get the near same learning experience as those in class. Going remote is way more than just hopping on a computer. The motivation to learn is lost, when in school you are right there. Listening to the lesson. When at home there are many distractions. Finding fun, and inclusive ways while keeping us learning the material. As well as “lessening” the work load will definitely assist. I understand we have to learn so much in a period of time at school, and we also have to practice. But I think the relationship between student and teacher needs to be more sound, and they need to communicate and establish a balance of work, with our home lives. I also understand that we should just “put in more effort”, but in reality due to everything that is going on, putting in more effort is not easy. Personally for me, putting in so much extra time and effort is effecting my mental health, as well as physical health with losing sleep. I know that because I feel this way, others must also feel this way. Personally I think teachers should be given a similar survey, asking about their students, if they think they are giving enough work, or too little. And if they think their students are having an easy time with remote, etc. Having a strong relationship with your students, and getting feedback on what is happening and if they are giving too much is vital in a virtual learning experience. Mr. lacasse is doing an amazing job with this, he is understanding that we have other things happening, and we can only do so much, while also making sure we get it done. For me, I understand it is not easy for a teacher either, just staring at little pictures and none of us talking back. Moral of the story, we should establish a middle ground of how much work the students can handle, and how much the teachers should give.

36. Offer all classes through RHS so that we don't have to do VLACS

37. (N/A)

38. We are getting a lot more work now than we ever did when we were in school when we could just go to our teachers classrooms and ask for help and the work that we are getting now is a lot harder too. Which in all honesty is not fair to us because we have so many other classes to work on, including online classes like Vlacs and I think that we should be given the same workload that we were given while we were in school and that we shouldn't get harder work just because we are now at home. It should NOT work that way.

39. RHS has been fine with assistance

40. Nothing the school teachers have been doing perfect with there Job it's me I just need to try harder and not be afraid to ask the teacher for help if I need help on something some of the assignments are kind of hard and I kind of just skip over them when I don't know it and I just got a try harder so I can get that done but I just can't be scared to ask them for help and I just need to do my job

41. In person learning

42. The teachers need to stop giving so much dam work I can't keep up.

43. As of right now, there is nothing that comes to mind that would help me.

44. Since I am a junior, college is on the rise and I am still anxious about it. I have tried reaching out to my guidance counselor but all I got was empty promises. If that system could be a bit better than me having to go to third party resources just to get information that is essential for my future, that would be amazing.

45. Less work

46. Having everyone go back to school
